Helvetica Capital invests in Statron AG

Swiss entrepreneurial investors, together with the former owners Peter Limacher and Pius Rogger, are acquiring Statron AG as part of a sustainable and independent succession solution. Statron AG develops, produces and distributes uninterruptible power supply (UPS) systems and battery solutions (e.g. BESS) worldwide.

The purchasing consortium's business concept for Statron AG is to continue operating and developing the company independently and autonomously, so that its full potential can be realized quickly and flexibly. The aim is to further strengthen the UPS systems business and expand with battery storage.

Peter Limacher and Pius Rogger, former majority shareholders, stated: "We are pleased that Statron remains under Swiss ownership and that we have found the right partners in Helvetica Capital."

Ruben Vogelsang, current and future CEO, commented on the transaction as follows: "We intend to further expand Statron AG's leading position and the associated core technical competencies. With this step, we ensure continuity for our customers, employees and business partners."

Giovanni Leonardi, the new Chairman of the Board of Directors of Statron AG, added: "We are very pleased to be able to continue leading Statron AG successfully into the future together with the management team. As future anchor investors, we stand for sustainable, independent development and are convinced that with our joint entrepreneurial commitment, we will continue Statron AG's successful story."
